REBEL

Recalling the general activities of the ending year will bring to mind a synopsis similar to the following:

The opening of school was the beginning of loud voices throughout the halls, the slamming of lockers, meeting new acquaintances, and renewing old friendships.

Settling down to our lessons was difficult, but also necessary.

Various extracurricular activities combined to make the year more enjoyable.

Later, our biannual Spectacular proved to be a worthwhile event.

Concluding the year were the 9A festivities which were attended by the majority of ninth graders.

The various fields of student activity have improved and enlarged through the years.

The present day monitors, presidents' council, and safety patrol were formerly known under one name, the booster club.

We are proud to say we had the first school band in Saginaw County, and it consisted of merely fourteen members.

The first Sis Boom was published entirely at South in 1927.

Dramatics has always played an important part in the students' life.

Nineteen thirty two was the origin of the Spendless and Seemore Circus presented solely by South's students. It was one of the biggest circuses in Michigan at that time. Later it became known as "The Southern Spectacular." As tradition held it, a reigning "Circus Queen" was chosen by the student body. Roberta Krenz, the queen of 1951, (PICTURED BELOW) had four attendants: Patsy Ashbough, Pearline Callus, Marcia Flucke, and Rachel Fiedke.

Staffs Essential to South

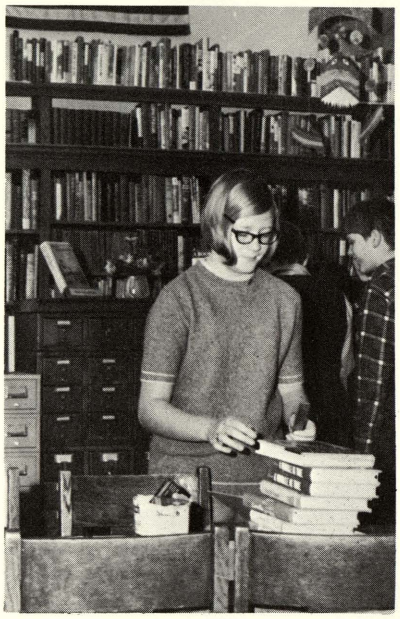
This year, students were selected to assist the elementary office and work with individual children. They act as secretary and teacher for Dr. Leesch, the principal.

Kelly Jo Hoffman works in the library preparing new books for American Book Week.



ELEMENTARY OFFICE (SEATED L. TO R.) Beth Thompson, and Mimi Stark. (STANDING) Noreen Reid, Debbie Ostrander, Amy Miller, and Sue Arnhold.

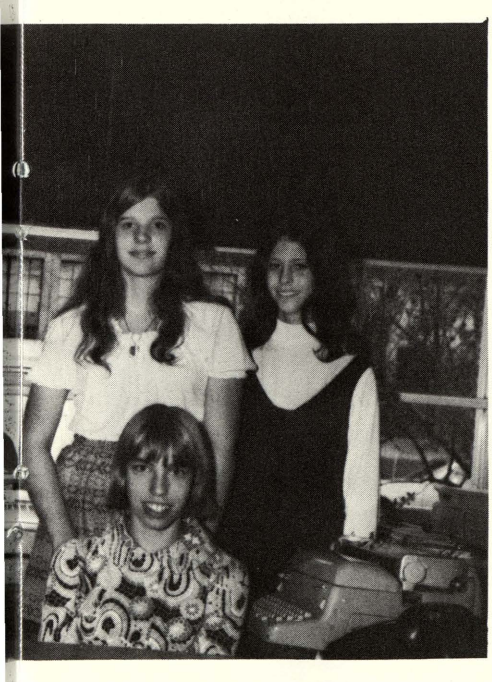
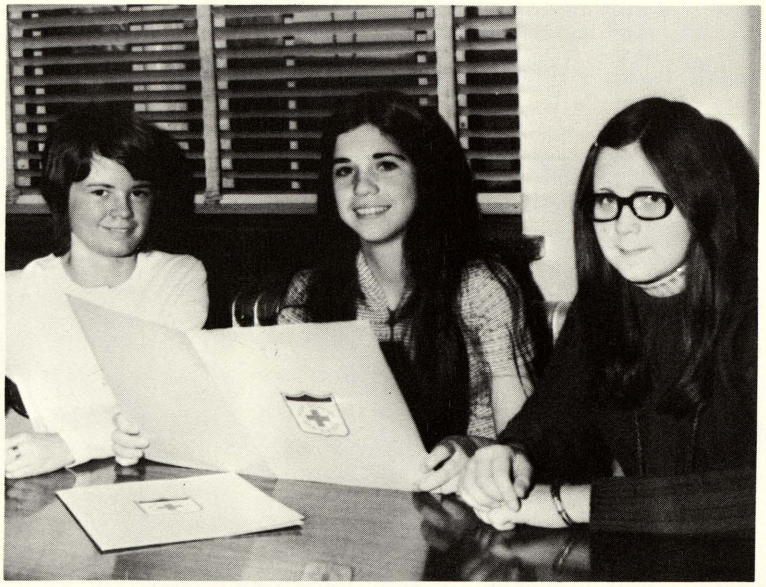
Frances Marcum helps to prepare for the Thanksgiving dinner by frosting cookies.

South wishes to thank the members of its staffs for all their hard work. These groups of students work together for one purpose: to improve South School. Much time and effort is put into their projects that help many people. This year, more staffs have been added to our yearbook, as more students volunteer their time to South. Without these staffs the school would not be able to operate properly. The spirit these students show in doing their duties is just another example of a "number one" school.





RED CROSS (L. TO R.) Colleen McKenna, vice-president, Marsha Damore, president, and Angie Fraser, treasurer. The Red Cross sponsors bake sales and has an annual drive every year.

Treasurer Rob McDonald, Secretary Carla Christeson, President Tom Heidger and Vice-president Tom Thompson guided our student body through the concluding year with great leadership. Not only did they perform the usual duties, but they also took on the responsibilities of special projects such as supporting our foster child, and a dance which added to the fulfillment of the year.

Presidents' Council: Government of South

The homeroom presidents are carefully selected by their homeroom, to represent them at the regular meetings held by the council. The presiding presidents this year were: (FIRST ROW) Paul Sternhagen, Rick Todd, John Gerrish, David Hoye, Peter Schell, Marcia Meyer, Kathy Cook, Gretchen Neiderstadt, Kim Bellinger, Mike Fisher, Mark Beeman, Ron Reinke, Brad Carl, Paul Zietz. (SECOND ROW) Tom Murphy, Randy Reinig, Mitchell Dijak, Herb Kleekamp, Bruce McLennan, Mark Zemanek, David Pitcher, Rodd Decker, Steve Walsh, Bill Schulz, Jim Bruggers, Barb Keene, Jody Gehrcke. (THIRD ROW) Dave Goodrow, Dave Rummel, John Young, Bob Becker, Frank Byron, Bill Vlassis, Jenesse Ferris, Mary Ann Sheets, Kathy Kross, Sally Jacobi, Becky Prine.

(RIGHT) The dance, at the closing of the football season was held in celebration and recognition of the undefeated eighth and ninth grade teams, number one of the city.

Singers Create Meaningful Mood

What could be more lively than the spirit of Christmas? What's more refreshing than a breath of spring air? The students of 210 express these feelings with music.

They share their feeling as best they can in assembled groups as the Mixed Choir, Girls Choir, Madrigals, Folk Singers, and the Glee Club. With skill and training of Miss Mary Ellen Gase bestowed upon them, she leads the singers to highlight our annual concerts with merriment as well as serenity.

All in all they made the year complete with abundant enthusiasm.

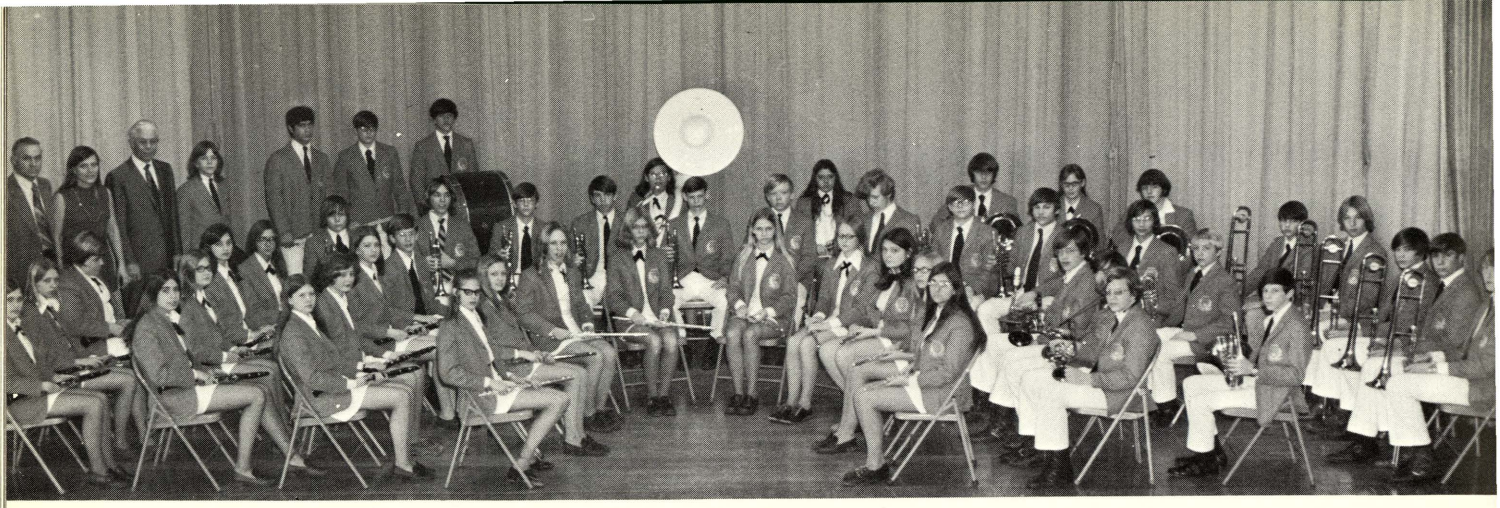
Here is the youngest of our singing groups. This is the 7th grade Glee Club made up of eager young volunteers! During the month of February these students placed their vocal skill in Miss Gase's hands, in order to achieve a more harmonious sound. Then their ability to improve was tested when they added a special touch to our Spring Concert. It you had been there you would have heard them come through with flying colors!



This band is the newly Advanced Band, composed of last year's Senior Band.

Sounds of Music Echo Through South

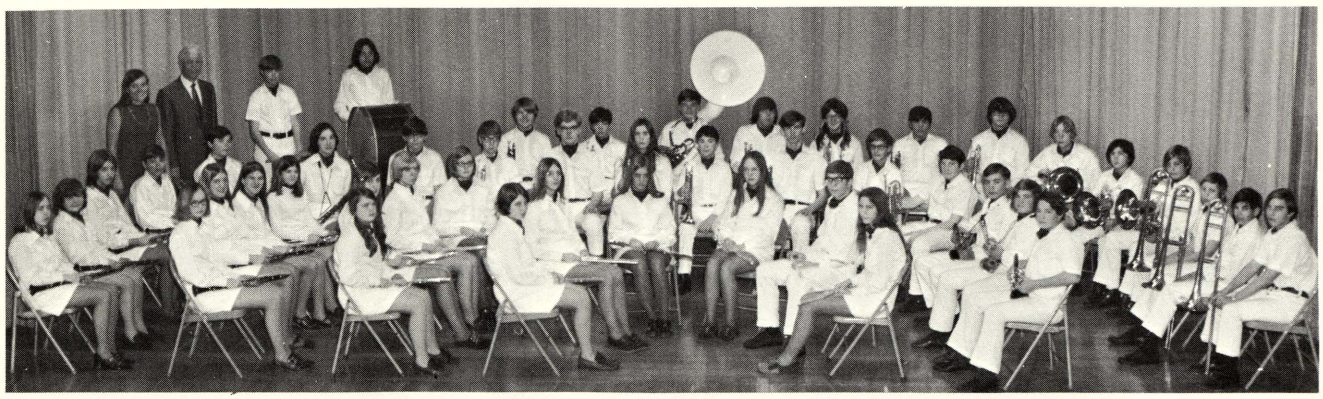
On milder days, the Advanced Band can be seen outside marching led by drum major Joe Ruthig.

Here, playing their trumpets and cornets are Tom Franz, Fank Mills, and Jeff Becker in the fifth hour band.

This has been a busy year for the musical groups at South. For a start, more bands were added. Each band had its own function-sometimes at PTA gatherings, at concerts, and at the Southern Spectacular. The orchestra provided music for the Christmas concert.

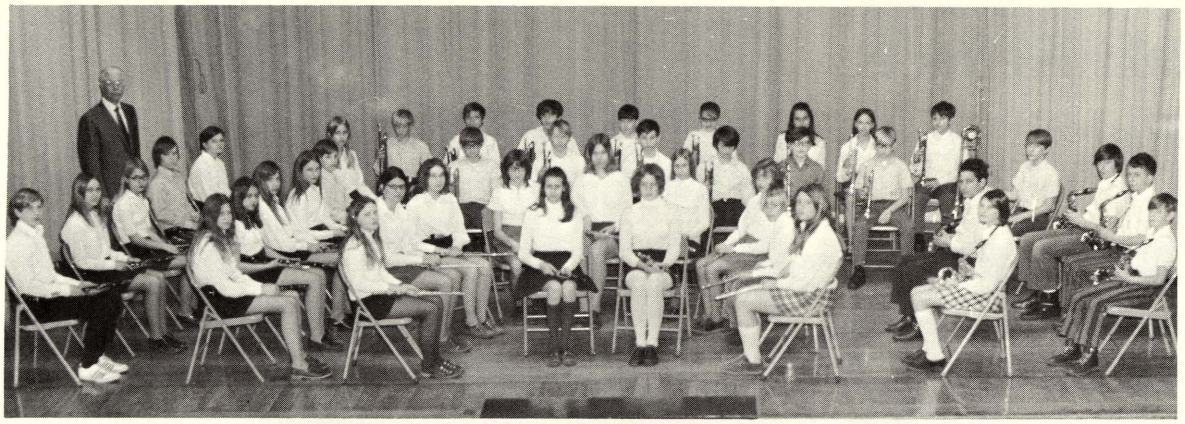
We do not realize all the time and effort spent by these students and teachers just to make their concerts a little more enjoyable. They first drill over and over, (sometimes taking over 15 minutes just to get four measures right), until the part is perfected. There was a variety of music played, ranging from Bach to 1972 tunes.

Mr. Austin, Mrs. Benjamin, and Mr. Shumate should be thanked for the enthusiasm they have shown in developing the musical talent at South.



The Senior Band has eighth and ninth graders, who perform at various concerts.

The small Intermediate Band was invited to play for the PTA, as well as in the spring concert.



This group is the Cadet Band, make up of seventh graders just beginning their musical career.

The orchestra has students that have been making music for an average of five years.

Staff Reflects Rebel Years

Carolyn dictates to Beth while typing up another edition of the Rebel Review.

This year Kay Maier and Jeff Altwies were selected for co-editors of the yearbook. They supervised everything done in this year's Sis-Boom.

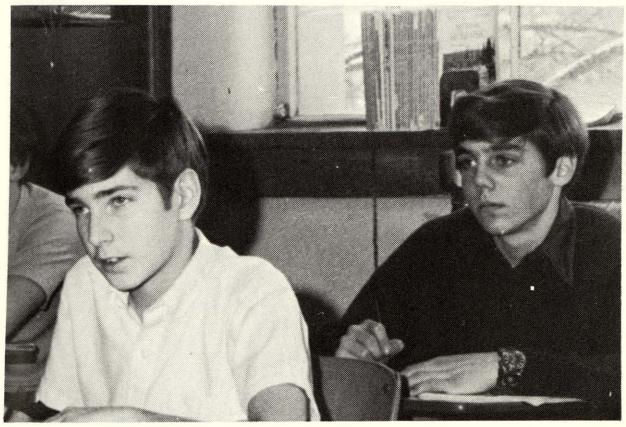
Frances and Kay check year book proofs, a tiresome but necessary bit of work.



Bob Wendland and Mark McCullen listen to what is being said about the yearbook ideas.

Southern Spectacular: The Golden Era

When the Spendless and See-more Circus started 40 years ago it was the largest indoor circus in Michigan. The students had a large part in the performance, but many professional acts were included. There were such things as magicians, acrobats and also animal acts. There was always a full house that in the end brought in $10,000.

In this year's Spectacular the students took part whole heartedly. Miss Kathy Engle took charge and made this Golden Era Spectacular the special thing it should have been. One beautiful act was "A Time For Us". Everyone loved listening to Susie O'Rourke and Lorie Lopez sing. The Sun Beamers, and the Olympians did such things as cartwheels and splits. Our music department contributed many acts such as the vocal trio, a cornet duet, the band and the Madrigals. Becky Ebach did a tap dance to the song "Sweet Georgia Brown." As we think of past Spectaculars we can safely say ours was one of the best.

(ABOVE) Six odd looking creatures made up this years dancing Stumble Bums. (BELOW) The 8th grade Southern Lassies did a dance routine to the song "Mame".

South girls have always been noted for their chorus lines. This year was no exception. The Sixteen Southern Beauties were a leg raising success.

(UPPER LEFT) These 1920 flappers are our own cheerleaders dancing the Charleston. (UPPER RIGHT) South's Kazoo Band made its first debut. They were a smashing success. (BELOW) One very different act this year was the boys' chorus line. They were appropriately named the Rebel Knockers.

"A baton is nothing new in the hand of Cindy Mills." This was her introduction in the Spectacular and it is very true.

Reflecting into the past Southern Spectacular, these girls from 1957 perform on the swinging ladders.

Paw Belsnickle is a man with a problem. Rather six problems- in the form of six unmarried daughters. Through the years, South has been engaged in many different athletics activities. South's athletes have participated in football, basketball, swimming, baseball, track, and volleyball. The trophy case in the main hall gives evidence to the fact that during the past fifty years, a lot of games have been played and a lot of championships won. In recent years, South's football teams have most successful among the others. The eighth grade football team has seized three city championships in a row and the ninth grade team has captured two consecutive championships. Even if South's teams were to never win, as is not the case, refuge could be taken in the fact that our teams have tried. If you have any belief in the old saying, "It's not whether you win or lose, it's how you play the game," you should realize that this is reward enough.

Girls Pocket Third Place

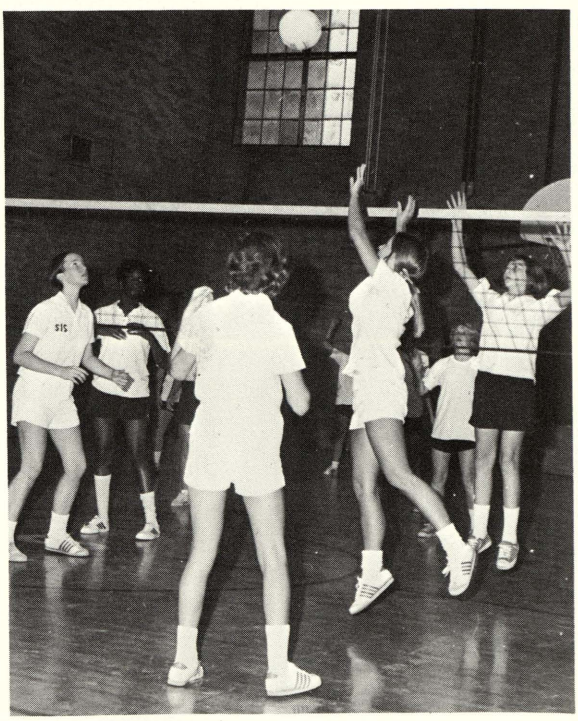
(ABOVE) "I've got it", screams Jenesse Ferris as Theresa Llamas and Cindy Mohr prepare to help out. (BELOW) "Set it up", cries Connie Barber when Carla Christeson hits the ball for a hopeful point.



This year the girl's volleyball team took third place in the city league. The team consisted of 22 ninth grade girls, two managers, and Miss Kathy Engle, who was the new coach this year. Opening the season with Central, the competition was tough and they fell to a loss for their first two games. After two losses and one win the girls jumped up with a recovery of five straight victories. Following that they had an uneven pattern of ups and downs, with 3 wins and 5 defeats. Yet with the season not over they returned with 3 victories to end the final score with a record of 12-9.

Ninth Grade Rebels

This year's ninth grade Rebels finished the season in 4th place under the capable direction of Coach Laeding. All in all, the team was spectacular. Their skill, determination and teamwork showed especially in their final game against Eddy where they really got it together for a 107-84 victory. High scorer for the season was Rob McDonald with a total of 234 points. WOW!!!

Eighth Grade Rebels Future Looks

The eighth grade Rebels finished the 1971-1972 season with a fine 8 and 2 record. Under the direction of Coach Little the team finished second behind Central.

Tom Kolesar was high scorer in a well balanced attack on offense. They got off to a slow start against Central but picked up some headway and won the last 6 games in a row.

With more experience and time working together the eighth graders may be Centrals closest and most dangerous competition.

The STAFF

During the past fifty years, South has prided itself in maintaining one of the finest teaching and guidance staffs available. Her faculty members have included some of the kindest and most understanding people around who have devoted their lives to teaching.

Ever since South first opened its doors on September 25, 1922, her excellent teaching record has remained untarnished. The original teaching staff, consisting of 30 members handling 750 students, has since grown to 62 faculty members and 1250 students. Even after fifty years and such a large increase in students, the enthusiastic teaching spirit remains the same.

The photograph below pictures the 1932 teaching staff, headed by Mr. Maurice M. Guy (FIRST ROW CENTER) our principal at South for 39 years, from 1929-1969.

Administrators Reflect Signs of Leadership

For the past fifty years, signs of leadership have been reflected at South. During the most recent three, we have been under the guidance of Mr. Ekelof, our principal, and Mr. Leeson, assistant principal. Mr. Maas, along with Mr. Hrinik, experienced their first year at South. Of course there are still the familiar faces of Miss Gay, Mr. Palmateer and Mr. Schaefer. They all played an important part in running South during it's fiftieth year. (ABOVE R.) Mr. Glen Leeson, assistant principal, Mr. John Ekelof, principal, and Mr. Duane Maas, assistant principal of pupil personnel, discuss student grades.

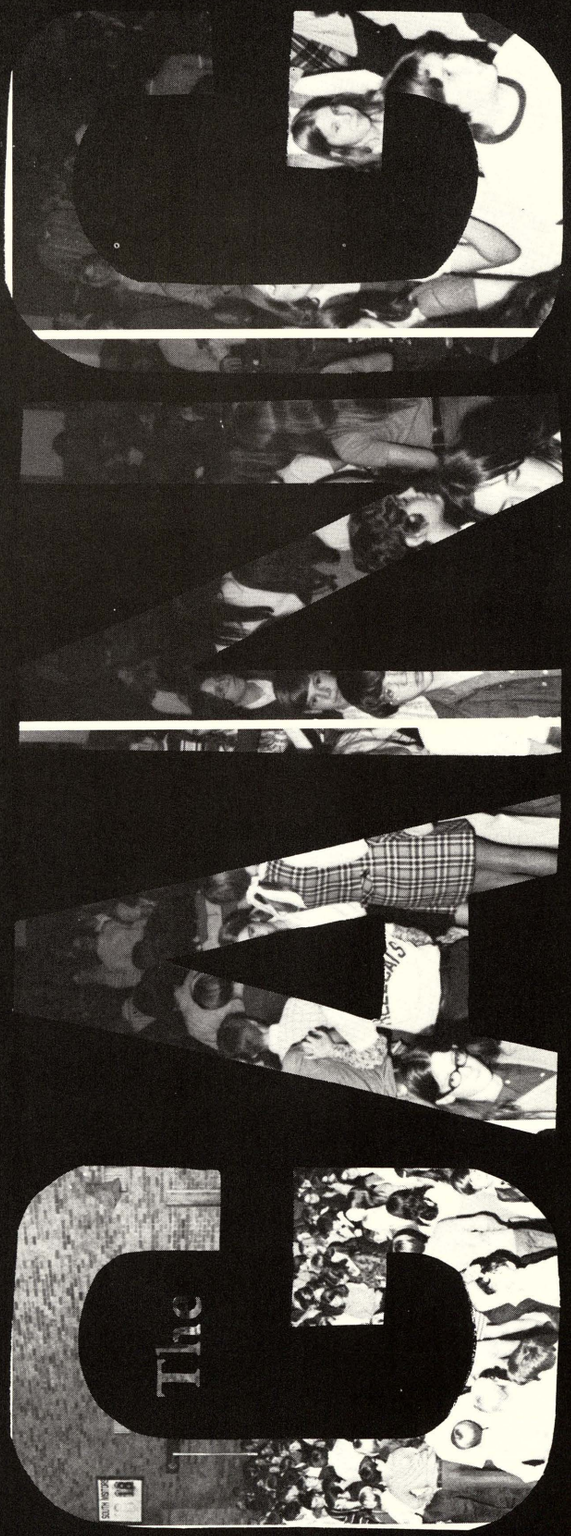
(BELOW) The helpful ladies you see around school are our women custodians Magnolia Carter and Hedda Handouits. (MISSING) Teresa Boyd.



Fifty years ago, when South first opened its doors for the education of junior high students, our enrollment was at the 750 mark compared with our present 1239 students.

"The students" are the main factor which earned the honored reputation for South. Loyalty, sportsmanship, and co-operation are words that always have beheld much meaning for the "Rebels".

From the beginning, we were striving to accomplish our destination.

Styles and fads have come and gone, but the treasury of knowledge gained within these walls will remain in our minds forever.

Concluding the 50th anniversary edition of the Sis Boom, we wish to bring to mind the fact that "We've come a long way." Through the years this has been a place where people are educated, prepared for their future, and personalities rounded off.

We, the yearbook staff, wish to show our gratitude to Mr. Ray Tigg (American Yearbook representative) for his guidance; to thank Mr. Ekelof, principal, and the faculty for the help they have rendered; to display our gratefullness to Mr. Fred Briegel from Werkema Studio; to express our appreciation to Miss Brown and her art classes who made posters and banners promoting yearbook sales, and for the cover contest which Carla Christeson won; thank you Carla for the many hours spent designing and reproducing the cover; and a "special thanks" to Mrs. Sparks our advisor. These people, along with this journalism staff, have made possible this book as it lays before you.

Co-editors,
